

Karl Gademann (born 1972) was educated at ETH Zürich and Harvard University (PhD with Prof. Dr. Dieter Seebach, postdoctoral studies with Prof. Dr Eric N. Jacobsen, Habilitation associated with Prof. Dr. Erick M. Carreira). After four years as assistant professor at EPFL in Lausanne, he moved in 2010 to the University of Basel, where he was recently promoted to Ordinarius (full professor) holding a chair in organic chemistry. Karl Gademann has had over eighty publications, holds two patents, and received several awards including a Novartis Early Career Award 2010, the national Latsis Prize 2011, the Lilly Lecture Award, the Ruzicka Medal and the Liebig Lectureship of the GDCh. He was awarded the European Young Investigator grant related to natural product synthesis and his research interests include the synthesis and chemical biology of natural products.